"I think Mt. Everest is very much like life. And, life is very much like an expedition..."

Brian O'Malley's adventures have taken him from the slopes of Mt. Everest to the jungles of Africa. He's an adventurer, author, award-winning photographer and a professional motivational speaker and presenter on the values of adventure and how they apply directly to the workplace. As a professional speaker, he draws parallels on his experiences from setting goals, taking risks and living your dreams.

A masterful storyteller, Brian brings adventure speaking to life with his inspirational presentations that bring the spirit of adventure into a variety of team building keynotes and workshops for conferences, corporations, health care teams, Nurses Week conventions, as well as financial and mortgage industries.

His speeches and presentations have been described as '...unique, inspiring, speaks to your heart with riveting passion.' With his stunning blend of art and adventure, Brian's words and wisdoms that stem from his Everest, African and everyday adventuresome spirit, translate into workplace and business scenarios to ignite corporate teams with new ideas and values to reach their goals. His keynotes and workshops bring forth a thunderous standing ovation, and he will be known as your highest rated speaker ever.
